He is maintaine the Bridge very gallantly:
There is an Enſigne there,
I do not know how you call him,
But by Ieſhu I thinke he is as valiant as Marke Anthony,
He doth maintaine the Bridge moſt gallantly;
Yet he is a man of no reckoning;
But I did ſee him do gallant ſeruice.
Gouer. how do you call him?
Flew. his name is ancient Piſtoll.
Gouer. I know him not.

Enter Ancient Piſtoll.

Flew. Do you not know him, here comes the man.
Piſt. Captaine, I thee beſeech to do me a fauour,
The Duke of Exeter doth loue thee well.
Flew. I, and I praiſe God I haue merited ſome loue at his hands.
Piſt. Bardolfe a ſouldier, one of buxſome valour,
Hath by furious fate, and giddy Fortunes fickle wheele,
That God's blinde that ſtands vpon the rowling reſtleſſe ſtone.
Flew. By your patience Ancient Piſtoll,
Fortune looke you is painted plinde,
With a muſler before her eyes,
To ſignifie to you, that Fortune is plinde:
And ſhe is moreouer painted with a wheele,
Which is the Morall that Fortune is turning,
And inconſtant, and variation, and mutabilities:
And her fate is fixed at a ſpherical ſtone,
Which rolles, and rolles, and rolles;
Surely the Poet is make an excellent deſcription of Fortune.
Fortune looke you is an excellent Morall.
Piſt. Fortune is Bardolfes foe, and frownes on him,
For he hath ſtolne a packs, and hangd muſt he be;
A damned death, let gallowes gape for dogs,
